The Old Cider Mill

On evenings like this, as I sit in the gloaming, my mem'ry goes back as one's memory will; I give it full sway in its erratic roaming, until it lands plump at the old cider mill—the mill of my Dad, in the old apple orchard—the only machinery the old man possessed; it ground up the "culls" and it squeeze out the nectar, that thrills me this minute, down under my vest. . . . That old cider mill was the pride of my boyhood, though smug yellow-jackets contested my right, and sometimes I landed an angry bald-hornet, that taught me to well how a devil can fight. . . . I've sat on the fence in supreme contemplation, and scratched my brown leg, as a lazy kid will,—and longed for a bumper of liquid inflation that oozed betimes, from that old moonshine still.—That old apple-grinder, that staunch old stem-winder, that dealt out the juice, like an old moonshine still.

Hours Instead of Days

On Fordson farms, hours instead of days are required for the plowing. Late Spring with the usual rush of field work does not make the Fordson farmer wonder whether he can get all the crops in, and still do the work in the way that will insure a fair chance for the crop to mature.

And on the Fordson farm, the Oliver No. 7—the special plow for the Fordson—is as dependable a part of the equipment, as the red Oliver horse drawn plow has been for over sixty-five years.

Built to meet the exact requirements of the Fordson, the No. 7 operates at greatest efficiency with the tractor. On thousands of Fordson farms since the first tractors went into the service of agriculture, the Oliver No. 7 has proved its value.

For conditions making desirable a sulky, the No. 3 sulky with either turning or brush base is supplied.

The price at which complete Fordson farming equipment can be purchased is surprisingly low.

For practical demonstration and full information, see the nearest Fordson dealer.

Oliver No. 7, two bottom gang, chilled, combined rolling coulters and jointers, —$75.00

Oliver No. 7, two bottom gang, steel or combination, combined rolling coulters and jointers, —$75.00

For plain jointers taken instead of the combined rolling coulters and jointers, a reduction in price is made.
